

Calling all home workers

Explore the pleasures of great writing with prize-winning author, Julia Copus. Are you a stay-at-home mum or dad? A freelancer, writer, IT worker, artist, therapist or craftsperson? Reading Matters is a free weekly reading group set up specifically for people who work some or all of the time from home.

What is Reading Matters?

Reading Matters is a reading group with a difference, and the Somerset branch is being set up specifically for people who work at or from home. Each week the group will listen to and then discuss a different piece of writing – usually a story, poem or novel extract. Along the way you'll discover some great literature, develop your analytical skills and make new friends.

No background knowledge is required, and there is no extra work to be done, either before or after the session. Experienced writer Julia is there to introduce you to some of the most inspiring writing around and to help guide the discussion. All you need to bring to the group is an open mind, and a willingness to talk and to listen.

Where is the course held?

Friends' Meeting House (Quakers) Bath Place, High Street, Taunton, Somerset TA1 4EP

Start date

Thursday 9 September 2010

Every Thursday evening, 6.15 - 7.45pm for ten weeks during term-time

The group leader's fee is paid for by the Royal Literary Fund, but a donation of £2 per session is requested to help cover.

How do I sign up?

To find out more, register your interest, or ask any further questions, contact Julia on juliacopus@hotmail.com.

Please note that the group will be limited to a maximum of 12 participants, and places will be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis.
